

Sales Executive – Security Services

Do you have at least two years of experience selling services that deliver value & effectiveness & have a pipeline to convert?

If you are confident, highly computer literate, able to communicate effectively in English and possess a valid driving license, you may be the right person to join the sales team of the World's leading provider of security services.

As Sales Executive you will identify, pursue and convert opportunities to provide customers with technology enabled security services that offer customers effective solutions.

We offer an attractive base salary, uncapped commission and a vehicle or allowance if you own your own car.

Applications are invited from Tanzanian Women and Men that have current experience selling B2B services at C suite level. As this is a senior position reporting directly to the Head of Sales you are likely to hold a professional qualification, be highly numerate and have a contacts network that will enable you to meet exacting sales targets.

If you meet the criteria for this role then send your CV and a one page letter explaining why you are the right candidate to careers@tz.g4s.com by 15 Aug 2019.

